About Asha Sridhar

Asha has over 20 years' experience in the fields of end-to-end talent management, learning and development and organisation development. She has worked in the fields of IT Education, BPO and Retail.

Asha has been responsible for developing and implementing talent management programmes, including career mapping for IT teams, development of high potential talent as well as coaching leaders to identify, mentor and develop their teams. She has worked on various programmes, where she was the HR 'face'. As stream leads on these programmes, Asha was tasked with designing and developing workshops, proposing team structures as well as writing job descriptions.

Asha has coached individual contributors and middle managers on navigating cultural differences and communicating and building effective cross-cultural relationships. She has led large teams of trainers and she has experience in training trainers to the standards set by the organisation.

As a consultant, Asha has worked with clients on ensuring that their policies in Asia are legally compliant.

Asha lives in Hong Kong with her family. An avid reader and photographer, she loves travelling, gardening and writes on her favourite theme of self-leadership and taking accountability for making change happen in her spare time.
